TBRI® Caregiver Training 2022

For Caregivers & Professionals (hosted by Counseling and Education Center)

Trust Based Relational Interventions® (TBRI®) is a parenting and intervention model developed by Dr. Karyn Purvis and Dr. David Cross at the TCU Institute of Child Development. TBRI® is based on a solid foundation of neuropsychological theory and research, tempered by humanitarian principles. It is a family-based intervention that is designed for children who have experienced relationship-based traumas.

Parenting is challenging, particularly when you are parenting a child from a hard place. Children from hard places include children who were born prematurely, have been abused and neglected, have been adopted internationally, and have special needs. This training will focus on understanding the meaning of child behaviors, the brain chemistry of a child from a hard place, and how to help these children (and your family) heal and connect. Participants will learn tools they can put into action with their children immediately.

The trainings are primarily open to post-permanency families and professionals that work with this population. This includes families with a finalized adoption, biological families who experienced removal, reunified successfully, and have no open case, and kinship families who have guardianship or APR and have no open case. Other caregivers may attend as space allows, but priority will be given to post-permanency families.
